Simply color in the icon for each book you read, including books you have read more than once! Check in with your logs at the Children's Desk when convenient for you. HOUSE TOUR (Continued from Page 1)

Built in 2014, the first house has beautiful historic detailing reflecting the spirit of a whaling captain's house of 1800s. Period details include moldings, reclaimed wide-plank pine floors, original glass windows over doorways, fireplaces, a Dutch door, and a gas lantern outside. Yet the house boasts the comfort of up-to-date bathrooms, kitchen and laundry facilities. Close to Havens Beach, this four-bedroom, four-and-a half-bath house is beautifully landscaped with private backyard patio, in-ground pool, and pool house.

A lovely Greek Revival built in the 1860s, the second house offers all the charm of a 19th century home with today's conveniences. Located in the heart of Sag Harbor Village, it includes two beautiful outbuildings. The main house features four bedrooms including a first-floor master with vaulted ceiling, main foyer, large gallery, and an elegant living room with fireplace. As was customary in houses built in the 1800s, a back staircase takes you from the guest rooms to the kitchen. Original wide plank floors are found throughout the house. Mature landscaping, complete with rose gardens, complements an outdoor living area.

Built in 1850, this extraordinary five-bedroom, six-bath house was once owned by a whaling captain and is fabled as a stop on the Underground Railroad. Newly renovated, it features exquisite details and finishes. The custom cabinetry, detailed woodwork, and 9" wide plank flooring reflect the home's historic heritage. Open concept living areas include a living room with fireplace, dining room, den, and kitchen. Glass doors across the rear of the home open to the beautifully landscaped grounds.

The tour concludes with the John Jermain House, built in 1780 by Major John Jermain and assembled on the foundations of two houses brought to the site. A saltbox from the 1600s, is now the dining area, and a Federal style house became the living area. This was the family home of Margaret Sage, granddaughter of John Jermain. The current owners' careful renovation preserved original details including five fireplaces, a beehive oven, original beams in the kitchen, and a ballast stone hearth. There are also two outbuildings, a potting shed and barn from the 1700s.
